

The eyes of the Democratic crister are "sold."

Every man Barium has bought for the Democratic campaign, has proved a good kicker.

The Democratic managers will be lonesome after the election. There will be no more forging for them to do.

If Hancock could only get one more kick at the Democratic platform before his defeat it might be some satisfaction for him.

As the day of election approaches, the wonder still increases in the minds of Hancock and English why they were nominated.

It is no wonder Hancock regrets that he was ever put on the ticket. Barium and the other leaders would make any candidate sick.

General Grant said another wise and truthful thing the other day—"The Democratic party is just as much interested in the success of the Republican party as the Republicans are."

Barium's figures do not seem to inspire the Democrats of Wisconsin with much hope. They are about as still-born in this State as Chairman Parkinson's management of the campaign.

No Republican is mean enough to forge a letter of General Hancock's. Beside that, Hancock's own letters to his "friends in Jersey" are good enough campaign documents for the Republicans.

There may be some encouragement to the Democrats in peddling lies and in making forged letters, but these never made votes for the Democratic candidates. They are just beginning to find it out.

If the managers of the Democratic party had gone to work in a regular organized manner to make blunders, they could not have been more successful than they have been. They seemed to blunder for a purpose.

It has been suggested by the New York Commercial that the next forged letter Mr. Barium will cause to be published, will tell how General Garfield once upon a time carried away a red-hot stove in his vest pocket.

If Mr. Chairman Parkinson of the Democratic State committee can't use the forged letter, why doesn't he issue another private circular? Anything to show that the Democratic party is not totally dead in Wisconsin.

It is very good that Wade Hampton gave his address, to which the Cleveland Leader says: "We wish this to be remembered. Every Garfield and Arthur club in Ohio should send him a congratulatory dispatch on the evening of the election."

Barium, the chairman of the National Democratic committee, has done some solid work for Garfield. The more mules he bought, the more letters he hired forged, and the more lies he circulated, the more converts he made for Garfield.

It is mighty hard work for the Democrats to make the workmen believe they should vote to reduce their own wages. Yet that is what the Democrats are asking the workmen to do when they ask them to vote for the Democratic party and free trade.

For the special benefit of those Democrats who believe Indiana will go for Hancock next week, we publish this extract from a letter written by a business man in Indianapolis to a friend in Hartford: "The Indiana Democrats are falling in pieces very fast. I never saw such a stampede politically in my whole life. If it continues one year from now the party by name will pass out of existence, and a new party under a new name will be organized. We will have 20,000 majority in November."

The people in England are anxious to have Hancock elected, because the Democratic party is for free trade, which would build up English manufactures and tear down our own. This country should pay heed to the law of self-preservation and protection. It should take care of its own industries and workmen and let England do the same. To adopt that policy which would break down our own factories and reduce wages, would be a national disgrace, and yet this is what the Democratic party is trying to do.

It has come to this point that the Democrats are trying to prove that General Garfield is a free trader, and that he once belonged to the Cobden club. The speeches of General Garfield in Congress show where he stands on the tariff question. But this movement of the Democrats illustrates their perplexed condition. They don't know which way to turn to make votes. They want to lie, if Garfield is a free trader, then why do the Democrats make a fuss about it? If the Democratic party is the only free trade party, why do they find fault with Garfield, and why don't they vote for him? It is too bad the Democrats can't find something to make some political capital out of this campaign.

A Washington dispatch to the Boston Herald, an independent paper, gives these speculations as to the result: "From the best information that can be got it is believed that the Republicans will carry

New York by 40,000 majority. Connected with 5,000 majority and New Jersey by 10,000 majority. Republican defeat is now deemed impossible in any Northern State. If there was any doubt about it, the Democratic managers have settled it against themselves by their recent extraordinary proclamations and performances. It is the universal verdict that such utter idiocy was never before displayed by men pretending to the ability required to manage a national political campaign as has been shown by Barium and his associates in putting forth the bogus Garfield letter and easily explained Jewell telegrams."

That straightest and most remarkable of all female characters—Sara Bernhardt—is now in this country. If some queen had come in all her splendor and with a dazzling retinue, she could not have created a livelier interest that did this greatest of all living actresses, Mlle. Bernhardt. Probably it would be safe to say there is no person living that the public would give more money to see than Bernhardt. Three weeks before she arrived, reserved seats to the aggregate value of $51,000 were sold in half an hour in New York, and then the demand could not be supplied. It may surprise those not accustomed to the theatre-going that people will grow frantic over such a personage as Mlle. Bernhardt. But she stands to-day one of the greatest actors of the time. She seems to sway her audiences with consummate skill, and puts a power in her acting which is irresistibly interesting. She is also a great artist and foremost among the female artists of Europe. There is something else which has made Bernhardt famous or notorious as you choose to call it. She never stood before the hymenal altar and yet she is the mother of four children, and the eldest, a bright boy of ten or twelve years, accompanies her to America. This circumstance has not detracted from her popularity in the capital cities of Europe, and probably will not in this country. As humiliating as it may seem to American ladies, they will pay their five or ten dollars for the privilege of seeing and hearing this sensational character. She will come to Chicago this season and will probably play a week or more, and despite her utter disregard for morality, the fashionable circles of that city will go en masse to see her. There are curious folk even in the highest society circles of Chicago, and these will nightly pay enormous prices to sit under the fascinating acting of Mlle. Bernhardt.

WHY WORKINGMEN SHOULD SUPPORT HANCOCK.

It is for the interest of the workingmen that there should be no change in the administration. The more business there is done in the country, the more factories there are running, the greater our exports, the more work there will be for American workingmen.

The workingmen should oppose the Democratic party because that party does not want to protect the industries of this country by a tariff, and without a tariff, the furnaces, mills, factories and mines could not employ one quarter of the men they do, neither could they pay as good wages as workingmen receive now.

The workingmen should oppose the Democratic party because the success of that party would launch this nation out upon a shoreless and boundless sea.

They should support the Republican party so that the labor of this country will not be reduced to the level of ill-paid and oppressed labor in the Old World.

They should vote with the Republican party because that is the only party which advocates a currency which was as good for the workman as for the capitalist.

They should support the Republican party and thus vote against lowering their own wages.

They should stand by the Republican party because it gave the people free homesteads, free schools, and a protective tariff, which has made the manufacturing power in the land.

They should work for the success of the Republican party because it is the only party which has a consistent policy regarding the tariff question, and has worked steadily for the advancement of manufactures and workingmen.

They should vote against the Democratic party because for the past forty years, it has stoutly opposed the policy of protection, has represented the Southern idea of free trade, and this year it demands a tariff for revenues only, which means nothing less than Democratic free trade.

They should vote for General Garfield because "he began life as a laborer, and has risen by his own efforts, never forgetting the free workingmen from whom he was chosen and whom he splendidly represents." They should vote for him because he made the best speech in Congress to defeat the Wood bill, in 1878, and it was upon his motion that the bill was killed in spite of 113 Democrats voting for it.

They should vote against Hancock because this Democratic party does not represent a single principle which will benefit the workingman.

Mrs. E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, Warren Co., N. Y., writes: She has been troubled with Asthma for four years, and had to sit up night after night with it. She has taken two bottles of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and is perfectly cured. She strongly recommends it, and wishes to act as agent among her neighbors. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sheer.

WISCONSIN.

Special to the Gazette.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The census bureau has filed the wealth, debt and taxation exhibits of Wisconsin. The total property is $483,971,451; the debt is $3,032,007. Janesville's debt is $34,000.

THE FORGED LETTER.

Special to the Gazette.

New York, October 28.—Exports fast-titled to-day that the forged letter, has the same chirography as Philip's manuscript. One declared that the stamp on the envelope had been erased. There are three stamps and no date discernible on either. All are seemingly erased. Adam Seet, whom Philip once assisted on the Brooklyn department, of the New York Tribune, testified that Philip had the habit of spelling companies with "G." He believes the Morry letter was written by Philip. An expert named Payne being sick, could not attend. Hart has been purged of contempt.

THE BUSINESS MEN.

An Immense Demonstration at New York, Addressed by Colonel Ingersoll.

New York, October 28.—The meeting of business men in Wall street is believed to have been the greatest meeting ever held there. Hundreds of prominent firms closed their stores in order to be represented in the parade. Large delegations from the Produce Exchange, dry goods, and other trades marched to Wall street with bands of music. Those sights are unprecedented in New York.

The meeting was remarkable also for the character of the men who composed it. Long before the hour fixed for the opening of the exercises men began to gather in the streets, intent upon securing good positions. When the time came the streets were packed full. Wall street was one mass of struggling men from New street nearly to Williams street, and Broad street was filled to below the Stock Exchange building. Every point of vantage had been seized. The sides of the nearest buildings were crowded with men, windows were filled, and even roofs bore numbers of eager listeners, while a pile of building material on Broad street, designed for the new front of the Stock Exchange, was covered completely. The grand steps of the sub-treasury building were blocked with the dense throng which occupied them.

As the orator stepped to the front of the platform he received a perfect ovation of applause. It was a remarkable audience that he addressed. His face glowed with satisfaction, and there was a tremor of emotion in his tone when he exclaimed that he was proud to address such a gathering. Except directly in front of him, as he looked down Broad street, he couldn't see the outer limits of the crowd. A broad sea of upturned faces was before him. The enthusiasm of the audience was wrought up to the highest pitch. The speaker's denunciation of Democratic principles was terrific, and when he alluded to the forged Chinese letter, saying of the Democrats: "They appealed to the sword in 1850, now they appeal to the pen," he elicited tremendous cheering. The meeting was altogether a remarkable demonstration.

THE END.

The Work of the National Committee Ended—Speculations as to the Result.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—The political campaign, so far as the work of the two national committees stationed here is concerned, is ended. The documents will not win any more votes. The Democratic committee has not done much in the way of documents since the Ohio and Indiana election. The Republican committee, however, has been even busier than ever. Mr. Hubbell, its chairman, and Secretary McPherson are extremely enthusiastic. Mr. Hubbell predicts that the Republican majority in New York State will be not less than 20,000. Mr. McPherson says tonight that he is very confident that the Republicans will secure a majority of the Congressional districts, and will control the next House of Representatives. The estimated majority at the Republican headquarters is perhaps extravagant. The claim is made to Chicago. It is even maintained that there will be a gain of three Republican Congressmen in Missouri, and gains are expected in Tennessee, Virginia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Kentucky. The Democrats, on their side, claim to believe that they will gain Congressmen in Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, and Michigan.

GENERAL GRANT.

A Regular Republican Jam in Buffalo to See Grant and Listen to Conkling.

BUFFALO, N. Y., October 28.—The Republican demonstration in honor of General Grant to-night was the grandest political event which has ever occurred in Western New York. This morning a business men's procession, showing Buffalo's industries, was arranged, but Grant's late arrival prevented him from reviewing it. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the Grand Central depot was crowded with such an immense throng that it was necessary to stop the train before the depot was reached. General Grant was welcomed by Sherman S. Jewett, Myron P. Hatch and James D. Warren. A band, containing the four was escorted to Jewett's residence on Delaware avenue by the 30th and the sixty-fifth regiments, through a continuous line of enthusiastic people.

Overloaded trains from the country began to arrive, and one train on the Lake Shore road brought 3,000 people. At the mammoth Republican wigwag at 3 o'clock there was a crowd estimated at over 20,000 people, half of whom were unable to obtain entrance. General Grant received a perfect ovation. It was fifteen minutes before he could speak. He spoke as follows: "FELLOW CITIZENS: As I cannot possibly make myself heard, I shall not say anything to you, but introduce you at once to Senator Conkling."

MADISON.

The Democratic Demonstration Last Night—A Comparison.

MADISON, Oct. 28.—The Democrats of this city have been busy at work since the business men of Madison turned out in a Republican procession 1,800 strong, a week ago last Tuesday. The showing of to-night was the occasion, and the country had been demurred up for miles, and with all their work, they only succeeded in forming 800 torches by actual count, this not including transparencies, which would bring it up to 900 torches. This including 150 torches from Watertown the bearers of which marched in a creditable manner, as did also the Minute-Men consisting of exactly thirty-four torches, and the Madison veterans of about fifty men. In addition was a struggling mass, half men and half boys. They marched through the streets until half-past nine o'clock, yelling themselves hoarse, after which they halted at the Assembly chamber to listen to the usual Democratic vituperation of Garfield and the Republican party by Messrs. Finney, of Madison, and Hamilton, of Fond du Lac. The better part of the Democrats who did not enter the procession considered the cause as hopeless in this country, and that Garfield and Arthur will be surely elected by nearly if not the solid North.

The Hon. John T. Kingston, member of the Assembly from the Second district, Johnson county, has sent his resignation to the governor. Mr. Kingston is one of the presidential electors of this State, and resigns so that he may be eligible as to his eligibility to act in such capacity.

WILLIAMS.

Another Grand Republican Rally in Beloit to Hear Congressman Williams.

Beloit, Oct. 28.—Beloit Republicans had another grand rally this evening, and turned out a fine torchlight parade, with two bands and significant banners and transparencies to greet Hon. C. G. Williams, who spoke for two hours to an immense audience at the Opera house after the parade. The Democrats have not peeped or muttered in any public way in this city this year. They appear to be too thoroughly discouraged to think it worth while to make the effort.

REPUBLICAN RALLIES

The following Republican meetings have been arranged for by the County Committee:

Clinton Junction—Friday, Oct. 29th, Hon. H. A. Johnson, Chairman. Oct. 30th, Hon. H. A. Johnson, Chairman. Oct. 31st, Hon. H. A. Johnson, Chairman.

—Temple of Honor night.

—The Mutual Improvers open the season to-night.

—Mrs. A. J. Glass by a fall yesterday afternoon fractured her knee joint.

—The Custer Rifles, of Whitewater, are to have their annual inspection this evening.

—At the annual inspection of the Janesville Guards, last night, there were 52 men in line.

—It grows worse and worse. The latest revelation is that the Democratic oratory which was shipped from here for Clinton, got spilled in a ditch a short distance south of this city. When the blind lead the blind, etc.

—The bills begin to come in for the trial of the murder cases. Walworth county sends with its compliments to Rock county a bill for $1240.00 for trying the Fogarty case, and Jefferson presents a bill of $3061.74 for the last Mack trial.

—Last evening there was a goodly sized audience gathered in All Souls church to hear what Rev. Jenk L. Jones had to say on "The Cost of an Idea." He gave an admirable lecture, in which he impressed the thought that ideas were above price, and worth any and every exertion to obtain.

—Those who are behind time in paying the rent due on their cell boxes at the postoffice, should bear in mind that there is a shortage in boxes, there not being enough vacant ones to meet the demand. Those boxes on which rents are past due will therefore be relet, unless those in arrears step to the front quickly.

—The ugly gutter at the crossing on Jackson street, by the Congregational church will no more wrench buggies and jolt riders. A large pipe has been put in place, running across the street, and serving as a drain, while this has been covered over and the street leveled up, making a great improvement indeed. The crossings at the corner of Franklin and Pleasant streets are to be improved in a like manner.

—John Duffey, who was arrested here by Marshal Hogan, for stealing a horse and buggy belonging to J. B. Sargent, of Normal, Ill., was taken back to Bloomington this morning. The Chief of Police of Bloomington, James Stone, having come for him. Mr. Sargent, the owner of the rig, left yesterday with his property for home, first paying Marshal Hogan the reward offered. Mr. Stone was met this morning at Alton by Marshal Hogan, and the prisoner, and proceeded at once homeward. He acted very fairly and squarely in settling up the expenses necessary for the capture of the man and keeping him in custody here, and made a very favorable impression on those who met him. Marshal Hogan deserves credit for the capture of this fellow and the recovery of the property, and there seems no doubt but that conviction will follow, although the prisoner still denies that he stole the rig.

—There is nothing so difficult as the art of making advice agreeable, and there is no advice more generally endorsed by the people than to use Spring Blossom in cases of Dyspepsia, Bilio-nervous or Disordered Stomach.

TOAST, WELL DONE

At the banquet spread for the militiamen visiting Macon, was a toast responded to by one of the Janesville Guards, which is thus spoken of by the Macon Telegraph:

"The third toast was—

"The Citizen Soldier—the Bulwark of the Union."

Responded to in an able and eloquent manner by Sergeant J. B. Doe, of the Janesville Guards. The speaker began in a humorous strain, but quickly changed into earnestness, and defined the position of a citizen soldier. He thought that we were a nation, and that every soldier should be known as a national guard, citing the fact that Illinois, New York and Wisconsin had already adopted this name. The speech was delivered in a clear, easy voice, and was loudly applauded.

PERSONAL.

—Mrs. John H. Myers and daughter returned to-day from an extended visit to Ohio.

—P. M. Pryor has connected himself with the Beloit Outlook, and to-day his household goods passed through here from Wauwaton, preparatory to being put in place in his new home.

ARoused AND ArouSING

The Republican meeting at Evansville last night was a grand success. The hall was filled to overflowing, and there were ladies as well as gentlemen in the audience.

The meeting was called to order by Dr. C. M. Smith, and on motion T. M. Bennett was chosen Chairman. The good time opened with two Garfield and Arthur songs, given by the Janesville Glee Club, consisting of C. N. Vankirk, Clarence Clark, Charlie Clark, Charlie Carter, R. R. Lee, and George Prehn.

O. H. Fethers, Esq., the speaker of the evening, was then introduced, and he held the audience in the closest attention, and called forth frequent and hearty applause, during the two hours and over, which he occupied in discussing the political questions involved in this campaign. It was certainly one of Mr. Fethers' best speeches, and was greatly appreciated. The Glee club sang several campaign songs, and the crowd adjourned, all happy and enthusiastic. The visitors from out of Evansville were most hospitably entertained by the good people there, and especially by Dr. Smith, and by our former townsman, Charlie Hollister, who never forgets Janesville friends. He presided over the banquet held at the hotel after the meeting, which was an enjoyable social and festive occasion.

At Emerald Grove, last evening, the church was filled with an enthusiastic audience. Hon. William Gardner presided, and the speakers of the evening were Senator Ham, Richardson and H. H. Blanchard, Esq. Their addresses were well received, and good seed was sown in good ground, which will spring up into an increased Republican vote next Tuesday.

Last evening the town hall in Harmony was well filled, and Hon. J. R. Bennett, and S. J. M. Putnam gave some stirring Republican speeches. James Menzies presided.

Hon. D. E. Sygret and Phyl Norcross addressed a Republican meeting last evening in Ramrill's school house in the town of Porter.

ROCKWOOD AT MILTON.

On Wednesday evening the meeting of the campaign was held at College chapel, under the auspices of the College Garfield and Arthur club. Prof. Rockwood arrived on the train from the East at 6:30 p. m., and was met at the depot by the Cornet Band and the club. A procession led by the band was formed and marched to college chapel and after rendering selections in front of the building the band entered the chapel which was tastefully decorated with flags, the portraits of Garfield and Arthur appearing over the rostrum. After music by the band, and a solo and chorus, "Old Sludy" by Messrs. Anderson, Ferris, Brown and Clark, the audience was called to order by the President of the Club, M. B. McNeil, who introduced Prof. S. S. Rockwood, of Whitewater, an alumnus and former teacher of the college. The speaker was greeted with hearty applause, and for two hours or more held the close attention of his audience, one of the largest that ever assembled in Milton. His effort was a magnificent one, and no brief synopsis would do it justice. His frequent applause showing that his points were highly appreciated. At the conclusion of his remarks a hearty vote of thanks was tendered, and after a selection from the band, the great crowd dispersed, feeling that the campaign in our village had been fittingly closed.

The Grand Central Hotel, which is so centrally located in New York City, has recently changed hands and is now under the management of Keefe, McKim & Co., of the famous Manhattan Beach Hotel, of Coney Island, and parties now will find it among the best in the city.

Next Tuesday evening at the Opera House is to be presented "Branpity Dumpty" by Jay, Rial's company. The name itself is so familiar that it is almost needless to say that it brings with it the promise of much mirth in the line of pantomime. It is a mingling of fun and pathos, sentiment, and broad humor and is of so unique a character as an entertainment that no outline can give an adequate idea of it. It needs to be seen. The prices of tickets are so low that all can see it and judge for themselves.

DILLON'S NEW PLAY.

On Wednesday evening John Dillon is to be at the Opera house in the new play "Electric Light." Yesterday's Chicago Times speaking of it says:

"Dillon, the irresistible, has in the principal character in 'Electric Light,' material with which to renew his popularity. It is an even rein widely different from that in which he is most familiar. The character is youthful and alert, well dressed, quick-witted, gentlemanly—in short, light comedy in the fullest modern meaning of the term. Dillon made his reputation as a comedian. His best efforts heretofore have been grotesque. That he should, at this stage of his career, branch out in a new direction is creditable to his enterprise. That he is successful in the effort betokens a versatility of gifts hitherto unsuspected. His play other comedy in this line was made four years ago, when he played a somewhat similar part in Byron's comedy 'Married in Haste.' It was not a particularly happy venture. He has evidently gathered himself since then for a fresh start, and this time it is 'ago.'"

The comedy is announced as an arrangement in English of the German comedy known as "Quickstep."

In coming it over for Dillon, Mr. Rannion has carefully preserved whatever of the original was transmissible, but much that was essentially foreign he has thrown away, replacing it with fresh work. Into the whole thing has infused a strongly American spirit. The result of his labor is a very brisk and frequently brilliant piece, with an entertaining story and abundant incident. The mechanism of the piece is very ingenious. It is not all comic. There are a few very pretty veins of sentiment in it, and some satirical cuts that are almost savage in their keenness. The company is a better one than has been looked for. As a rule the arguments that travel through the west are not of a high order. For a western company this is almost good enough to be called superb.

MUSTERED OUT.

Death of Sergeant Childers. From the Effect of the Gunshot Wound Received While Training.

Sergeant Childers is no more. Such was the message received by Captain L. Grange, of the Bower City Rifles, to-day, death having come about half-past two o'clock this morning. Sergeant Harry Childers, as most know, was accidentally shot on Lake Koshkonong, one week ago last Sunday. He was at the time in a boat with a young man named Murphy, who is an attorney at Waukegan, and a son of Judge Murphy. Murphy was firing over Childers' head at some ducks, and as he fired the second barrel, Childers raised up, and the charge hit his head, blowing away a portion of the skull and leaving the brain exposed. Murphy succeeded in getting him to shore, about a mile and a half distant, and he was taken to the Lake View house about three miles from Koshkonong station, where he has since been nursed for, and where death at last came to him.

Since the accident he has been unable to speak, one half of him being paralyzed. He seemed partially conscious, but was unable to do more than to occasionally motion in an indefinite way to indicate his pain and his wants. He has been cared for as best he could, and as far as possible the absence of money and relatives, was made up for by those who gathered about him.

Sergeant Childers has had a checkered career. Much of his past life is unknown to us, and other parts have been gleaned from his own accounts of his experiences. He was a man about fifty years of age, tall, well developed, vigorous in health and strength, and looked younger than his years. He came first to Janesville about two years ago, and while the red ribbon temperance furor was in its height here, he gave some stirring addresses. As a speaker he was earnest, but unlettered, and with an easy flow of words, with good thoughts and live manner, he bordered upon the eloquent at times. From here he went to Clinton and other places where held temperance meetings with good results. He was interested in the work because of his own experience. He had been in years gone a man of some property, but family troubles and drink soon caused him to lose all, and he became a good deal of a vagabond. His family was broken up, and it is said that his son and daughter are still living somewhere in Indiana.

From his whirl of dissipation he rallied, and during the later years of his life he lived soberly. He was of a roving disposition, and had travelled much. He served during the late war with great credit to himself, and became so proficient in the manual of arms, that he gained rank as being the best drilled man in the company. He handled a musket in an unhesitating, lightning-like manner. Jim Fisk's attention was called to him, about the time that an officer in the English army was creating a sensation by his alertness in drill. Fisk sent Sergeant Childers to Europe, to compete with this English officer, but as the Sergeant occupied then no army position, the English officer declined to compete with him, deeming it beneath his dignity. Fisk lacked Childers up by a standing wage of $100.00, and a challenge for any man in the world to step up and win it by excelling him in drill. The wage was not taken, but Childers for a time gave exhibition drills and caused great excitement and talk. He remained in London for three years and put in his time at the great Zoological Garden there, studying the habits and peculiarities of animals, and in this way gained the knowledge which made him such an apt talker on natural history.

He has traveled with various circus companies in various positions, and much of his later life has been spent in this business. He never clung to one place long, though, and seemed always content in roving about and living from day to day, with apparently little care for the future. For a time he drilled the Bower City Rifles, and spent his spare time in hunting and fishing, content to get enough to pay his board, and have a little spending money. He was of a peculiar make-up, generous to a fault, tender-hearted yet brave, rough and ready, yet as careful as a courtier not to utter a harsh word in the presence of a lady. He won friends and made but few enemies, and many will be sad at the thought that his life has thus gone out.

The funeral services are to be held in the Congregational church here at half-past 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and the funeral will be of usual military nature.

THE POLICE COURT.

Edward Dillon was brought into the Police Court, to-day, to answer to the charge of larceny. It appears that on the 27th of September he stole a new pair of pants and a pair of suspenders from the wagon of Hod Cunningham, as it stood on the street. He sold the property, and the officers have been looking after him ever since. Yesterday Marshal Hogan captured him, and to-day Dillon pleaded guilty, was fined $100, and not having the ready cash was given six months in jail.

Michael Furham, for a smallish kind of a drunk was to-day sentenced to one day in jail.
